World War II Operational Documents

During WW II, the Command and General Staff College's (CGSC) primary mission was to train large numbers of staff officers. To that end, the Army provided copies of documents, such as operations orders, after action reports and intelligence analyses, produced by field units, to the College.

School of Advanced Military Study Monographs

The School of Advanced Military Studies (SAMS) is one of the parts of the U.S. Army Command and General Staff College (CGSC). SAMS monographs typically address historical events, current operational issues, or new organizational concepts.

Master of Military Art and Science Theses CGSC regular course students may elect to take a set of electives, write a thesis, and earn an accredited Masters. Master of Military Art and Science theses provide in-depth research on historical events, operational issues, and organizations, both existing and proposed.

Fort Leavenworth History

A variety of media relating to the history of Fort Leavenworth, Kansas, including books, pamphlets, photographs, and maps.

Operational Leadership Experiences A project of the Combat Studies Institute, the Operational Leadership Experiences Interview Collection archives firsthand, multi-service accounts from military personnel who planned, participated in and supported operations in the Global War on Terrorism.

Military History, 1900-1939 Documents cover World War I, the Russo-Japanese War, the interwar period and other topics from this time period.

General Military History Covers areas of military history to include items on the Vietnamese Conflict, Korean War, and the U.S. Civil War, to name a few.

Stability and Support Operations Lessons learned, reports, doctrinal materials, and monographs relevant to SASO are included. These documents are not limited to Army or Department of Defense sources.

Obsolete Military Manuals The emphasis is on Army doctrine. The publications are no longer current doctrine or current operating procedures and they are presented here for their historical value.

CGSS Student Papers, 1930-1936 The Command and General Staff School (CGSS) students at Fort Leavenworth, Kansas, produced papers about military history topics during 1930-1936 classes. Some of the papers were written as individual research papers and some were done as a group research monograph. This is a rich resource for interwar topics, as well as lessons learned about past battles and operational art.
